HITLER WARNS "WE MAY HAVE TO FIGHT"

President Opens World's Fair

BERLIN, May 1—A stern warning that Germany may some day "have to fight for our vital rights" was delivered by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today in a course of two May Day speeches which ended on a note of peace.

Comparing himself with war-mongers and agitators in other lands, the Fuehrer said:

"There is but one great difference between us. I love peace. This has been clearly proven by my work."

In addresses to German youth and workers, Hitler and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels scolded the "senile" democracies and asserted that in the event of a showdown, Germany would emerge with the "upper hand" in Europe.

One Fight Required

Only one such fight, with the aid of Germany's allies, would be necessary to rout the imminence world, Hitler said as he emphasized German security in an address before 132,000 boys and girls of the Hitler Youth organization in the Olympic stadium.

Goebbels' speech, sounding the holiday's keynote, was stronger still. "Just as we conquered the old-time Germany, we will overcome the old-time world . . .

"The countries representing youth will gain the upper hand in Europe.

"You will have to fight for the new Germany, perhaps for a new Europe . . .

"But what could democracy, which has grown senile, do if faced by Nazi youth?"

Opening May Day demonstrations, converted to German Labor Day under the Nazi regime, Hitler said that Germany could trust its future just as it trusts its youths.

"From a powerless Reich has risen a greater Germany," said Hitler.

"Once despised, it is now respected. Once defenseless, it is now armed heavily.

"A nation once at the mercy of the outer world now is secure through its own power and that of its friends."

"The Germany of the future," Hitler told the young people, "must present as much strength as its youth represents.

COAL DEADLOCK 'BREAK' HINTED

Mine Owners, Labor Chiefs Receive Ultimatum To Find Solution

Lewis Calls Lieutenants To Confer In New York

NEW YORK, May 1—A "break" of one kind or another was expected within the next few days in the soft coal deadlock as the suspension of work in the Appalachian fields entered its fifth and crucial week today.

Mine owners and union leaders were faced with an ultimatum from Dr. John R. Steelman, the special federal mediator, that unless they evolved a solution by Wednesday the government would submit one of its own to them.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, also demanded that the dispute over a new contract be settled this week and at the same time proceeded to make the suspension of work nation-wide.

The operators were continuing their efforts to agree on a new proposal to be submitted to Lewis.

Meanwhile, as the 320,000 miners in the Appalachian area continued their enforced idleness, another 100,000 in the Middle West prepared to lay down their tools this week and 100,000 continued work in the anthracite fields under a special one-week extension of their expired contract, the nation's fuel supply was rapidly approaching the exhaustion point.

MAY TERM JURY BEGINS STUDY OF CRIMINAL CASES

Six substitutions were necessary Monday on the Pickaway county grand jury before it started consideration of a docket of about 31 cases. The jury is expected to be in session for two days.

Three persons on the original list were discharged because of illness. They were S. D. Lathouse, Walnut township; George C. Griffith, Third Ward, and Erma Briggs, Perry township. Carl Snider, Fourth Ward, was excused because of absence from the county. George S. Lutz, Saltcreek township, an attorney, and Dr. Charles W. Barch, Harrison township, were excused from duty.

Those chosen to fill the vacancies were William Reid, J. H. Helwagen, Miss Mary Foresman, Mrs. Otto J. Towers and Oscar Woebner, all of Circleville, and Mrs. Jane F. Hoover, Ashville. Mr. Reid was appointed foreman.

Others on the jury from the original list are Ben Vause, Harrison township; Fanny Rector, Walnut township; R. G. McCoy, Washington township; C. E. Dick and Berndine Caudy, Monroe township; Luther J. List, Circleville township; Isaac Boggs, Pickaway township; Kermit Dountz, Scioto township, and Walter Hedges, Saltcreek township.

Designed to increase the collection of sales tax, the stamps will be redeemable in lots of $100 at three percent when presented by any of the following groups:

Charitable, religious, fraternal, educational and patriotic organizations; central and executive committees or recognized political parties; corporations, individuals or organizations which submit proof they aided in enforcement of the sales tax law.

Obviously, few individuals will collect the stamps because it would take an expenditure of $3,333.33 to get $100 worth, which would be redeemable for $3. Thus, the purchaser would have to save 10,000 one-cent stamps to get a $3 rebate.

48 NEW CARS IN APRIL

Forty-eight new cars were delivered in Pickaway county during April, reports in the clerk of courts office reveal. Last month the sales totaled 76.

BITTER DEBATE FOR FREE CITY NEARING CRISIS

London Spokesman Claims Possibility Remains For Compromise

REICH DEMANDS DANZIG

Growing Army, Air Corps Make Poles Stand Firm Against Nazi Grab

LONDON, May 1—Great Britain and France will go to her aid should Poland decide to fight for retention of Danzig, a foreign office spokesman declared today as the cabinet of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain met again in emergency session to consider the European outlook.

Poland does not want war, however, the spokesman asserted, and will fight only if a "serious issue" develops. Meanwhile, in contrast to alarming reports from Warsaw, it was learned that Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck had informed Britain and France of his conviction that a peaceful solution of the Danzig crisis is possible.

Britain and Poland are remaining in close contact regarding all implications of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's speech on Friday, in which he denounced the German-Polish non-aggression pact and insisted on Danzig's return to the Reich.

A spokesman declared that discussions with Soviet Russia over Bolshevik inclusion in the anti-aggression bloc were continuing "in an encouraging and hopeful spirit."

HUNGARY UNDER HITLER'S WING?

French Commentator Claims Agreement Signed After Conference

BERLIN, May 1—A Paris report charging that Germany has established a protectorate over Hungary was denied in Berlin today. The German-Hungarian status in common relationship as anti-comintern partners remains unchanged, it was stated officially.

PARIS, May 1—Hungary's prime minister and foreign minister have signed an accord in Berlin making Hungary a virtual protectorate of the Reich, Paris newspapers heard today.

Writing in L'Oeuvre, Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, authoritative commentator, said:

"Yesterday Chancellor Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany submitted an Italo-German plan to Premier Count Teleki and Foreign Minister Count Csaky of Hungary, to which the latter affixed their signatures.

"This plan establishes a German protectorate over Hungary, and details of its application."

This account was partially confirmed today by Paris-Midi.

Hungary's army and police forces will be under German command, Mme. Tabouis said. During the next few months, she asserted, the army is to be recognized completely, and in the event of a general war it would be used against Rumania and Yugoslavia, if they sided against Germany.

In order to save the faces of the Hungarian premier and foreign minister, the writer asserted, the German protectorate will be presented under the guise of Hungarian ansschluss with Slovakia. But, she pointed out, Slovakia already is thoroughly in Hitler's control.

Unwed Mother Admits Drowning Deformed Boy

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—Holding her dead 11-day-old baby boy in her arms, Camille Katchko, 27, of New York City, surrendered to a detective in Broad street railroad station early today and admitted she drowned the infant, according to police.

Miss Katchko approached the detective and said: "Here, I've drowned my baby," local police announced. By the woman, police believe she drowned the child in New York bus terminal and rode in a bus to Philadelphia with the body in her arms.

The self-confessed slayer told authorities the child was born out of wedlock last April 20 with a deformed foot. Rather than have the child live under such a handicap, Miss Katchko was quoted as saying, she drowned the boy.

Father of the child was a New York merchant marine seaman, and she was the daughter of a prominent professor of music in that city, Miss Katchko reportedly said. She said the boy was born in St. Clair's hospital, New York.

The body of the child which the mother held in her arms throughout the lengthy questioning by detectives, was brought to the morgue. Police notified homicide authorities of New York City and held Miss Katchko pending their arrival.

The woman called the Philadelphia detective bureau this morning saying she had killed her baby and asking that a detective come for her. When detectives arrived at the station, however, she was not in sight.

Three hours after her telephone call, Miss Katchko walked up to the railroad detective and surrendered. On questioning, she first said she had drowned the child in a washroom at the Philadelphia terminal, but later admitted the alleged slaying occurred in New York according to homicide squad detectives.

Physicians at the hospital where the infant's body was taken said the boy had been dead at least 12 hours. Miss Katchko said she left New York for Philadelphia at 4:45 p. m. Sunday.

Europe's Crisis

By International News Service

May Day, beginning the month which Pope Pius XII asked be devoted to prayers for peace, today presented evidence of more bellicose preparations by both camps in Europe. Developments:

BERLIN—Chancellor Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels, in Labor Day speeches, said German youth might have to fight for German "rights" but would emerge with the "upper hand" in Europe.

WARSAW—Backed by army increases, Poland indicated she might demand greater rights in Danzig as a counter-move to German proposals.

LONDON—Signs suggested that Britain and France favor a compromise solution of the Danzig crisis, rather than risk war.

Indications were strong that both Britain and France favor a compromise solution of the Danzig-Polish Corridor question, rather than go to war over it.

Yet authorities were inclined to admit that the immediate key to war or peace may lie in the hands of Poland, should Germany decide to back up Chancellor Hitler's demands for cession of the Baltic city with a Nazi coup.

Terms of the Anglo-French guarantee to Poland leave it to Warsaw to decide whether Poland's independence is threatened to a point where Poland must fight, thereby obliging the democracies to give military help.

Progress towards bringing Russia into a grand alliance is being made, it was reported following talks between Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador who has just returned from Moscow. Halifax is laying the results of these conversations before the cabinet today.

WARSAW, May 1—Backed by a growing army and air force, Poland today indicated not only that she firmly refuses to give up Danzig to the German Reich, but demands even greater rights in the present free city.

Recognizing the decline of the League of Nations' authority, Poland hopes to take over the functions of the former league commissioner for Danzig, it was commissioned to determine disputes between the free city and Poland.

This would give Poland a powerful hand over the Nazi-dominated Danzig senate, since the main function of the commissioner was to determine disputes between the free city and Poland.

BUSINESS ASKS NEW DEAL FOR IMMEDIATE AID

WASHINGTON, May 1—The nation's business called on the administration today to carry out its promises of assistance by revising taxes and reducing federal spending.

More than 2,000 industrial leaders, assembled for the 27th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, stood united in the demand that the government translate into action its recent pledges to emphasize recovery rather than reform.

In sharp contrast to previous conventions of the chamber, the majority of the delegates indicated a desire to cooperate with the administration in the elimination of business deterrents. Anxious to effect a rapprochement between government and industry, the chamber invited President Roosevelt to address the gathering. Mr. Roosevelt, who in recent years has directed scathing criticism at the organization, refused the invitation on the grounds of "pressing affairs."

Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins was who to have substituted for the President also has withdrawn from the chamber's guest list. Hopkins informed Chamber President George H. Davis that ill health prevented his appearance before the convention. At a late hour last night, chamber officials were attempting to induce Attorney General Frank Murphy to speak for the administration.

D. H. Marcy, relief director, said the case load at the beginning of the month was 286 families. During the month 65 families were removed from the relief rolls. These removals, he explained, were largely through employment on W.P.A. and in private employment.

COAL DEADLOCK 'BREAK' INTENDED

Mine Owners, Labor Chiefs Receive Ultimatum To Find Solution

"We are of the opinion that this farce should be ended and that by next week the operators should have decided whether they will or will not make a contract with the United Mine Workers," Lewis said in explaining this move.

"It is time for Gilbert and Sullivan opera to cease and time that some serious thoughts enter the minds of the operators.

"This 'stop Lewis' drive never did develop more than 'three-rabbit' power and now it is obviously fizzling out."

The final sentence of Lewis' brief but characteristically blunt statement was apparently a reference to reports that coal operators aligned with financial interests anxious to call a halt to Lewis and his C.I.O. were determined to hold out against a new coal contract.

Just what form Dr. Steelman's threatened federal intervention will assume was a question for conjecture. The least he might demand, it was believed, was that some mines be opened to supply coal to municipalities and public institutions whose supplies are seriously injured.

BITTER DEBATE FOR FREE CITY NEARING CRISIS

of the Labor party, which has voiced strong opposition to conscription.

Indications were strong that both Britain and France favor a compromise solution of the Danzig-Polish Corridor question, rather than go to war over it.

Yet authorities were inclined to admit that the immediate key to war or peace may lie in the hands of Poland, should Germany decide to back up Chancellor Hitler's demands for cession of the Baltic city with a Nazi coup. Terms of the Anglo-French guarantees to Poland leave it to Warsaw to decide whether Poland's independence is threatened to a point where Poland must fight, thereby obliging the democracies to give military help.

Progress towards bringing Russia into a grand alliance is being made, it was reported following talks between Viscount Halifax, the foreign secretary, and Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador who has just returned from Moscow. Halifax is laying the results of these conversations before the cabinet today.

WARSAW, May 1—Backed by a growing army and air force, Poland today indicated not only that she firmly refuses to give up Danzig to the German Reich, but demands even greater rights in the present free city.

Recognizing the decline of the League of Nation's authority, Poland hopes to take over the functions of the former league commission for Danzig, it was reported.

This would give Poland a powerful hand over the Nazi-dominated Danzig senate, since the main function of the commissioner was to determine disputes between the free city and Poland.

In spite of the fact that Chancellor Hitler in his speech last Friday recognized Poland's right to an outlet on the Baltic, the official organ of the Polish government, Gazeta Polska, today said Germany's policy is directed towards separating Poland from the sea.

Similarly, the army organ, Polska Zbrojna, stressed that Danzig lies at the mouth of the great Vistula river, and "we cannot give it up."

Poland likewise remains unmoved in her determination not to grant Germany any extra-territorial rail and highway route across the Polish Corridor to link Prussia and East Prussia.

Yet, when Poland replies to the German memorandum denouncing the Polish-German non-aggression treaty, this country is expected to leave the door open to further negotiations. In any case, Poland seems now to be playing for time, until the European situation in general becomes more settled.

FAYETTE COUNTY JURORS FAVOR TWO DEFENDANTS

WASHINGTON, C. H., May 1—A verdict in favor of R. E. Duckwall and Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, sued by W. R. Christy, of Amanda, for alleged malicious prosecution, was returned by a Common Pleas court jury after deliberating an hour and a half. Christy asked $5,000 damages.

Christy contended he was arrested on a charge of giving a worthless check when he had sufficient funds in the bank to pay the check. Officers of Pickaway and Fairfield counties were among the defense witnesses.

$4,070.63 SPENT DURING APRIL FOR AID OF NEEDY

The Pickaway county relief department spent $4,070.63 during April, about $200 more than in the same month last year and $900 below relief costs last month.

The money expended was for direct relief, work relief, for medical expenses of clients and care.

D. H. Marcy, relief director, said the case load at the beginning of the month was 286 families. During the month 65 families were removed from the relief rolls. These removals, he explained, were largely through employment on W.P.A. and in private employments.

Hitler Warns Germany "May Have to Fight" realize that nothing will come to them as a gift, but who know they have to fight, and who will not fall victims to poisonous doctrines aimed to undermine the nation's morale . . .

"Also, we want sober people. Germans of the future will be measured only by their works, carried out in the spirit of health."

The Fuehrer warned that Germany "will have to fight only once for its rights:

"The rest of the world now is speaking of its rights as it formerly did, when it attempted everything to deprive us of our vital rights. That time is now over. It will be definitely ended through you."

Paying tribute to the unity of the Reich, the chancellor said:

"We and other youthful nations, perhaps, will have to fight once for your vital rights.

"But if the outer world should ever believe it could clutch our liberty, then I know there would be an outcry from a million voices so powerful their hopes would be frustrated.

"We are respected again, although liked less. But we are content with the love among ourselves. I am content that you stand behind me. Then, if the rest of the world threaten us, it will fail as it always has failed in the past."

Smaller demonstrations are being held in other cities, including Danzig. Three hundred thousand gathered in Vienna to hear Joseph Buerckel, Reich commissioner for Austria, who today becomes chief purveyor of the former Austrian capital.

LIBRARY SHOWS GREAT INCREASE IN BOOK USAGE

23,924 Volumes More Put Out In First Quarter Than Last Year

RURAL SERVICE GROWS

Daniel Pfoutz On Program For District Meeting At Hamilton

The Circleville Public Library had an increase in circulation of 23,924 books in the first quarter of 1939 over the same period last year.

Figures announced Monday for the first three months of 1939 were January, 14,988; February, 14,651 and March, 17,850, a total of 47,489 books. The increase these figures represent over the same months last year were January, 10,435; February, 6,899, and March, 6,590.

The library has enjoyed a steady increase in circulation in recent years. Circulation for 1937 amounted to 47,254 and 107,837 for 1938.

Free service to all residents of Pickaway county was inaugurated by the library in January, 1934, after its source of support was changed from municipal revenues to a general county fund.

That this service of the library for rural folk was not clearly understood, has been demonstrated since the establishment of the book truck service in February, 1938. The truck has resulted in tremendous increases in circulation. Nine routes are covered every two weeks by the traveling library, with school and village stops throughout the county.

Daniel R. Pfoutz, county extension library, will speak on his work at the South-Western Ohio district meeting of librarians to be held Tuesday in Hamilton.

Circleville was represented at the first of the 1939 district meetings of the Ohio Library association by Miss Mary Wilder, library. Miss Wilder accompanied Mrs. Susanna Titus, county extension librarian of Ross county, and Mrs. Alice Riegel, Kingston Librarian, to Marietta, April 27, for the meeting.

LIBRARY SHOWS GREAT INCREASE IN BOOK USAGE

23,924 Volumes More Put Out In First Quarter Than Last Year

RURAL SERVICE GROWS

Daniel Pfoutz On Program For District Meeting At Hamilton

The Circleville Public Library had an increase in circulation of 23,924 books in the first quarter of 1939 over the same period last year.

Figures announced Monday for the first three months of 1939 were January, 14,983; February, 14,651 and March, 17,850, a total of 47,489 books. The increase these figures represent over the same months last year were January, 10,435; February, 6,899, and March, 6,590.

The library has enjoyed a steady increase in circulation in recent years. Circulation for 1937 amounted to 47,254 and 17,837 for 1938.

Free service to all residents of Pickaway county was inaugurated by the library in January, 1934, after its source of support was changed from municipal revenues to a general county fund.

That this service of the library for rural folk was not clearly understood, has been demonstrated since the establishment of the book truck service in February, 1938. The truck has resulted in tremendous increases in circulation. Nine routes are covered every two weeks by the traveling library, with school and village stops throughout the county.

Daniel R. Pfoutz, county extension library, will speak on his work at the South-Western Ohio district meeting of librarians to be held Tuesday in Hamilton.

Circleville was represented at the first of the 1939 district meetings of the Ohio Library association by Miss Mary Wilder, library. Miss Wilder accompanied Mrs. Susanna Titus, county extension librarian of Ross county, and Mrs. Alice Riegel, Kingston librarian, to Marietta, April 27, for the meeting.

Arms To Germany

Betsy Barton, lovely daughter of Congressman Bruce Barton, recently revealed in her newspaper column that during the Spanish civil war, shells fired by Franco bore the mark of a Pittsburgh manufacturer. The shells had reached the Spanish Fascists despite the U. S. embargo against both sides in Spain.

What most people overlook is that Cordell Hull has permitted the shipment of arms to Germany and that Germany supplied a large part of Franco's ammunition.

Arms shipments to Germany continue despite the Treaty of Berlin between this country and Germany which prohibits the "importation of arms" into the Reich.

Mr. Hull takes the position that the United States is not violating the treaty because there is no prohibition against exporting arms; therefore it is only Germany which is doing the violating.

Barter Deals

The brains behind the barter deals are those of the State Department's tousle-haired, pipe-smoking Herbert Feis, Adviser on International Economic Affairs.

Feis (rhymes with rice) can be seen at almost any diplomatic party in Washington, and he makes good use of his diplomatic contacts. It was through informal conversation in a western European embassy that Feis first opened discussion of exchanging surplus U. S. agricultural products for strategic raw materials.

"We want supplies of tin and rubber," Feis said to the diplomat, "and you want supplies of wheat and cotton. Why can't we get together?"

The two men went to see Secretary Wallace, who mulled over the plan, then discussed it with Senator Byrnes of South Carolina.

Next step was a visit of Wallace and Byrnes to Cordell Hull. The Secretary of State smelled the bad odor of barter and didn't like it.

But he was persuaded that this was different—there would be no

SOVIET LEADER PRAISES FLIERS

Stalin Wires Tribute To Aces Who Fell After CROSSING OCEAN

NEW YORK, May 1—Warmly felicitated for their deed by Josef Stalin, Russia's two greatest flyers Brig. Gen. Vladimir Kokkinaki and Maj. Mikhail Gordienko, today were to make a belated appearance at the New York World's Fair to receive plaudits for their Moscow to New York flight which ended in a crash on lonely Misou island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 800 miles from New York.

The two Soviet flyers were brought to Floyd Bennett field, New York, last night in Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt's huge cabin ship which was piloted by Russell Thaw. They were greeted by Constantin Oumannsky, chargé d'affaires at the Soviet embassy in Washington and Soviet commissioner to the fair, and New York City officials.

As they landed the two flyers, apparently little the worse for their experience, were handed this message from Stalin:

"Warm congratulations on the safe completion of the outstanding flight from Moscow to North America. Your flight covering 8,000 kilometers in 22 hours and 56 minutes has shown that courageous, valiant Soviet fliers can successfully solve the most difficult tasks of modern aviation. We embrace you. We wish you good health. We shake firmly your hands for the government of the U.S.S.R."

It's possible other countries will come in with other commodities, but Hull will block any move to apply to barter regular commerce.

Polish-British Flop

Diplomats are not shouting it from the housetops, but the much-hailed British-Polish alliance has never been signed, and is not in force today.

After Foreign Minister Beck's discussions in London, he took the new pact to Warsaw where it was supposed to be signed within ten days, following which general staff officers of both countries were to draw up detailed plans for each other's defense.

But nothing happened—except that the Poles decided the British were a weak military reed on which to lean, and the Germans used such bulldozing tactics that the Poles feared any final signature of the alliance would precipitate war.

SUNK BY PENSIONS

COLORADO has been having another pension crisis. Threatened with the closing of state institutions for lack of funds, the state assembly has dodged that calamity by grabbing the money where it could be got. It used state funds intended for the usual support of needy local school districts. Two thirds of those resources have thus been taken from the children, whose education will suffer accordingly unless new funds are found for them elsewhere.

Taxes are very high in Colorado, and apparently cannot be jacked up much more. There is always, in taxation, a "point of diminishing returns."

The thing that is blamed for getting the state into this jam, and breaking the taxpayers' backs, is the old-age pension amendment adopted two years ago, which provides $45 a month for the old people. It was reaffirmed in the election last fall, and apparently nothing can be done about that. So the state government finds itself obliged to adopt all sorts of devices to keep going. The old-age pensions are said to have taken about all the money which formerly went for general relief. Sales taxes and liquor taxes, formerly adequate and used for numerous purposes, are said to be nearly all absorbed now by pensioners and other welfare groups.

It may be well for Congress, now flirting with a general old-age pension measure, to give careful study to the Colorado situation. Old people in need must be cared for, but the net result of some of the pension schemes now winning support might be general bankruptcy rather than prosperity.

MEANEST TOURIST?

THE returned American traveler who says he used Kansas State tokens for tipping in the Balkans explains that the inhabitants accepted these unusual objects happily. Apparently they didn't know enough about American money—perhaps about any money—to recognize the spurious quality of the tips.

Possibly this indicates something about the poverty or the ignorance of natives in the Balkans. But what does the story indicate about the distributor of the tokens?

We seem to have misunderstood our own gangsters and kidnappers in the recent era of domestic lawlessness. All they wanted was appeasement.

World At A Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

A newspaper friend of mine wrote a letter, early in Senator H. Styles Bridges' term on Capitol Hill, to the New Hampshire colon, concerning some journalistic matter, now immaterial in its nature.

He received a polite answer, signed "H. Styles Bridges." Now, my friend knows H. Styles well and wishes him similarly. So he dispatched a confidential little note to the latter, in which he said: "Dear Senator, don't you realize that a public man who 'parts his name in the middle' (that is, starts it off with an initial) gives an impression of supposed superiority that has very undesirable and unpopular repercussions for a politician?" H. S. Bridges' would be all right, but just "Styles Bridges" would be better. It isn't a common name anyway; there's no danger that it will be mixed with any "John Smiths" or "Thomas Joneses." Why not cut out that initial initial, and sign yourself plain "Styles Bridges"?

He got a response signed "Style-sie."

Since then Senator Bridges' name has appeared in the congressional directory as "Styles Bridges." Look in the last directory and you'll see it so.

THREE-BARRELLED NAMES

For some reason or other this rule seems to hold pretty good generally.

A middle initial isn't so bad; it isn't so conspicuously unusual and tony.

A three-barrelled name also will pass muster.

Nevertheless Franklin Delano Roosevelt hasn't the punch to it that Theodore Roosevelt had, and Franklin D. Roosevelt isn't as satisfactory to the White House as Franklin Delano or mere Franklin.

By the same token Vice President Garner prefers "John Nance" to "John N."

This pair got their middle names so effectively incorporated into the record that they can't get them out at this late day; they would if they could manage it.

Two names seem to have more pep in them than a larger plural.

Woodrow Wilson originally was "Thomas Woodrow," but he succeeded in unloading the "Thomas" before he became nationally prominent. Herbert Hoover was "Herbert Clark Hoover."

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

BUSINESSMAN TO GET BREAK

WASHINGTON—It is not supposed to be known, but Secretary of Commerce Hopkins recently wrote RFC Chairman Jesse Jones a sharp letter. It was not a letter which one Cabinet member writes to another near-Cabinet member. It was blunt and had to do with notorious failure of the RFC to lend money to small business though it has poured millions into the sink-hole of bankrupt railroads.

"Jesse," read the most important part of Hopkins' personal letter to the RFC Chairman, "I'm getting hundreds of squawks about RFC lending policies every day. So are you, so is the White House and the SEC. Now this can't go on. You'll just have to get down off your high horse and do something about it."

And Jesse is doing something about it. This is the most important economic development of the New Deal today. At last he is untangling the purse strings of the RFC as far as small business is concerned.

Harry Hopkins' polite bawling out apparently has made an impression. Also there were several other factors, among them:

1. Jesse Jones wants to be head of the new spending-lending agency.

2. Jesse also harbors vice presidential ambitions.

3. The SEC is making an extensive survey of small business needs, and the results aren't going to do the RFC any good.

4. Economic trends, despite government spending, are downward, and New Deal generalissimos are worried. Pumping into small business is the most likely remedy.

5. Senator Jim Mead's bill for government-guaranteed bank loans to small business is winning powerful support.

All of which indicates that the small businessman at last is going to get a break.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

Newsmen were trying to shake a story out of Henry Wallace at his press conference. They were trying to make him protest possible loss of two bureaus to Ickes through reorganization. The dialogue went like this:

"Mr. Secretary, will you comment on the plan to shift Forest Service and Biological Survey to Secretary Ickes?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"But you have heard that discussed, haven't you, Mr. Secretary?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"Would you favor it, Mr. Secretary, as a general proposition?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"Mr. Secretary, what do you think of Roosevelt for a third term?"

NOTE—Real fact is that Wallace wept such copious tears at the White House

"People Just Won't Die of Pneumonia"

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

ALTHOUGH The pneumonia season is about over for the next few months, the doctors are just summarizing the experiences which can be applied to the yearly epidemic when it appears next Fall.

Sir William Osler, the revered senior doctor of the last genera-

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

once said that no advance in the treatment of pneumonia had been made since Hippocrates. And since Hippocrates lived about 400 B. C. and Dr. Osler died in 1919, that was a long time or waiting for announcements. People wonder sometimes why good doctors are so skeptical about new remedies. Well, here is an example. If you had waited any part of the time that lasted from Hippocrates to Osler for a real cure for pneumonia, and none had appeared, you would be skeptical, too.

Skeptical of Serums

Dr. Osler died just as the serum treatment for pneumonia was being evaluated. I was very skeptical of the serums when they were first used, but last year I reported in this column the investigation I had made of them and was able to express the first little faint gleam of hope I had. But even then I reported that the new drug, pyridine sulfanilamide, was being used and even in the best clinics the serums were being given a secondary place in its favor. Now we find reports to the effect that pyridine sulfanilamide is far more effective than all the serums.

Everyone who has ever used sulfanilamide in the treatment of pneumonia agrees that it is wonderful in its effects. Perhaps Dr.

McKhann's remarks in Dallas are a bit exaggerated on the optimistic side. A more conservative view is that of Drs. Price and Myers, of Detroit, who found that in treating 115 cases of pneumonia, 15 percent died. But this figure is compared to 40 cases treated with a serum in which the death rate was 27 percent.

The great advantages of sulfanilamide are, first, that no typing is necessary and, second, that it can be given by mouth.

The first advantage will be understood when it is realized that there are 30 types of pneumonia germs. For each one a particular serum has been developed. But before the serum can be given, the particular type of pneumonia the patient has must be determined. This takes time and is expensive besides. Sulfanilamide can be given to any type of pneumonia. It is as effective in the worst type, Type III, for which no serum was ever of any value.

The advantage of being able to give it by mouth is obvious. It is axiomatic that all drugs that can be given by mouth should be. Most of the business of giving drugs hypodermically or by vein is a business that is more profitable to the doctor than to anyone else. The wonder is that this drug can be swallowed, enters the blood streams quickly, and kills germs without affecting the human cells at all.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any coin pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Phil Parrish, New York reporter, is old-fashioned enough to believe that his wife's place is in the home, with their newborn baby, Jessica Eleanor, who met Phil on a small town newspaper, has his sympathies. "See anything you like?" he asked.

"Not better than you," she smiled. "You wear evening clothes as if you were born in them. Men are so lucky. Your styles don't change."

"You look like a fashion picture yourself, Mrs. Parrish."

"In a dress that's older than Jessica?"

"Why didn't you buy yourself a new one?"

"Oh, I've more important plans for my advance," she told him. "I'm going to an auction with Kit Tuesday. I thought I'd pick up some new furniture. Spend it all on a grand spree fixing up the apartment."

"I wouldn't," he said shortly.

Jessica favored her mother with a grave, unimpressed glance from

"Come on, darling, smile!" her mother urged, patting gobs of cold cream over her face. "Isn't anybody in this family going to celebrate mommie's wealth? In this little purse there's a beautiful check for three hundred American dollars. Wealth beyond the dreams of avarice! And anybody thinks it was tainted. If you knew how I had to work on your father just to get him to celebrate tonight—"

"Are you trying to alienate my dad's affections?" Phil demanded from the door.

"Angel!" Eleanor said, glimpsing the carnations he was trying unsuccessfully to conceal. "I'll put them on the dressing table while I

SUNK BY PENSIONS

COLORADO has been having another pension crisis. Threatened with the closing of state institutions for lack of funds, the state assembly has dodged that calamity by grabbing the money where it could be got. It used state funds intended for the usual support of needy local school districts. Two thirds of those resources have thus been taken from the children, whose education will suffer accordingly unless new funds are found for them elsewhere.

Taxes are very high in Colorado, and apparently cannot be jacked up much more. There is always, in taxation, a "point of diminishing returns."

The thing that is blamed for getting the state into this jam, and breaking the taxpayers' backs, is the old-age pension amendment adopted two years ago, which provides $45 a month for the old people.

It was reaffirmed in the election last fall, and apparently nothing can be done about that. So the state government finds itself obliged to adopt all sorts of devices to keep going. The old-age pensions are said to have taken about all the money which formerly went for general relief. Sales taxes and liquor taxes, formerly adequate and used for numerous purposes, are said to be nearly all absorbed now by pensioners and other welfare groups.

It may be well for Congress, now flirting with a general old-age pension measure, to give careful study to the Colorado situation. Old people in need must be cared for, but the net result of some of the pension schemes now winning support might be general bankruptcy rather than prosperity.

MEANEST TOURIST?

THE returned American traveler who says he used Kansas State tokens for tipping in the Balkans explains that the inhabitants accepted these unusable objects happily. Apparently they didn't know enough about American money—perhaps about any money—to recognize the spurious quality of the tips.

Possibly this indicates something about the poverty or the ignorance of natives in the Balkans. But what does the story indicate about the distributor of the tokens?

We seem to have misunderstood our own gangsters and kidnapers in the recent era of domestic lawlessness. All they wanted was appeasement.

We've often heard of "snake oil" as a pain-killer, and now the University of California finds that cobra venom is a wonderful pain-killer. As administered by the cobra, the venom kills the patient along with the pain, but the doctors will change that.

World At A Glance

A newspaper friend of mine

wrote a letter, early in Senator H. Styles Bridges' term on Capitol Hill, to the New Hampshire solon, concerning some journalistic matter, now immaterial in its nature.

He received a polite answer, signed "H. Styles Bridges." Now, my friend knows H. Styles well and wishes him similarly. So he dispatched a confidential little note to the latter, in which he said; "Dear Senator, don't you realize that a public man who parts his name in the middle" (that is, starts it off with an initial) gives an impression of supposed superiority that has very undesirable and unpopular repercussions for a politician? "H. S. Bridges" would be all right, but just "Styles Bridges" would be better. It isn't a common name anyway; there's no danger that it will be mixed with any "John Smiths" or "Thomas Jones." Why not cut out that initial initial, and sign yourself plain "Styles Bridges"?

He got a response signed "Style-sie."

Since then Senator Bridges' name has appeared in the congressional directory as "Styles

Bridges."

Look in the last directory and you'll see it so.

THREE-BARRELED NAMES

For some reason or other this rule seems to hold pretty good generally.

A middle initial isn't so bad; it isn't so conspicuously unusual and tony.

A three-barreled name also will pass muster.

Nevertheless Franklin Delano Roosevelt hasn't the punch to it that Theodore Roosevelt had, and Franklin D. Roosevelt isn't as satisfactory to the White House as Franklin Delano or mere Franklin.

By the same token Vice President Garner prefers "John Nance" to "John N."

This pair got their middle names so effectively incorporated into the record that they can't get them out at this late day; they would if they could manage it.

Two names seem to have more pep in them than a larger plurality.

Woodrow Wilson originally was "Thomas Woodrow," but he succeeded in unloading the "Thomas" before he became nationally prominent. Herbert Hoover was "Herbert Clark Hoover."

So initials are quite significant.

BUSINESSMAN TO GET BREAK

WASHINGTON—It is not supposed to be known, but Secretary of Commerce Hopkins recently wrote RFC Chairman Jesse Jones a sharp letter. It was not a letter which one Cabinet member writes to another near-Cabinet member. It was blunt and had to do with notorious failure of the RFC to lend money to small business though it has poured millions into the sinkhole of bankrupt railroads.

"Jesse," read the most important part of Hopkins' personal letter to the RFC Chairman, "I'm getting hundreds of squawks about RFC lending policies every day. So are you, so is the White House and the SEC. Now this can't go on. You'll just have to get down off your high horse and do something about it."

And Jesse is doing something about it.

This is the most important economic development of the New Deal today. At last he is untangling the purse strings of the RFC as far as small business is concerned.

Harry Hopkins' polite bowing out apparently has made an impression. Also there were several other factors, among them:

1. Jesse Jones wants to be head of the new spending-lending agency.

2. Jesse also harbors vice presidential ambitions.

3. The SEC is making an extensive survey of small business needs, and the results aren't going to do the RFC any good.

4. Economic trends, despite government spending, are downward, and New Deal generalissimos are worried. Pumppriming into small business is the most likely remedy.

5. Senator Jim Mead's bill for government-guaranteed bank loans to small business is winning powerful support.

All of which indicates that the small businessman at last is going to get a break.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

Newsmen were trying to shake a story out of Henry Wallace at his press conference. They were trying to make him protest possible loss of two bureaus to Ickes through reorganization. The dialogue went like this:

"Mr. Secretary, will you comment on the plan to shift Forest Service and Biological Survey to Secretary Ickes?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"But you have heard that discussed, haven't you, Mr. Secretary?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"Would you favor it, Mr. Secretary, as a general proposition?"

"The only agency in the executive branch competent to discuss that is the President."

"Mr. Secretary, what do you think of Roosevelt for a third term?"

NOTE—Real fact is that Wallace wept such copious tears at the White House

"People Just Won't Die of Pneumonia"

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

ALTHOUGH The pneumonia season is about over for the next few months, the doctors are just summarizing the experiences which can be applied to the yearly epidemic when it appears next Fall.

Sir William Osler, the revered senior doctor of the last generation, once said that no advance in the treatment of pneumonia had been made since Hippocrates. And since Hippocrates lived about 400 B. C. and Dr. Osler died in 1919, that was a long time of waiting for announcements. People wonder sometimes why good doctors are so skeptical about new remedies. Well, here is an example. If you had waited any part of the time that lasted from Hippocrates to Osler for a real cure for pneumonia, and none had appeared, you would be skeptical, too.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Skeptical of Serums

Dr. Osler died just as the serum treatment for pneumonia was being evaluated. I was very skeptical of the serums when they were first used, but last year I reported in this column the investigation I had made of them and was able to express the first little faint gleam of hope I had. But even then I reported that the new drug, pyridine sulfanilamide, was being used and even in the best clinics the serums were being given a secondary place in its favor. Now we find reports to the effect that pyridine sulfanilamide is far more effective than all the serums.

When we find a speaker from Harvard announcing to the Dallas Clinical Medical Society, "People just won't die of pneumonia any more," and realize that he is speaking of the use of sulfanilamide only, it looks as if the serums were gone for good. So my skepticism may have been justified.

Everyone who has ever used sulfanilamide in the treatment of pneumonia agrees that it is wonderful in its effects. Perhaps Dr.

McKhann's remarks in Dallas are a bit exaggerated on the optimistic side. A more conservative view is that of Drs. Price and Myers, of Detroit, who found that in treating 115 cases of pneumonia, 15 percent died. But this figure is compared to 40 cases treated with a serum in which the death rate was 27 percent.

The great advantages of sulfanilamide are, first, that no typing is necessary and, second, that it can be given by mouth.

The first advantage will be understood when it is realized that there are 30 types of pneumonia germs. For each one a particular serum has been developed. But before the serum can be given, the particular type of pneumonia the patient has must be determined. This takes time and is expensive besides. Sulfanilamide can be given to any type of pneumonia. It is as effective in the worst type, Type III, for which no serum was available.

The advantage of being able to give it by mouth is obvious. It is exorbitant that all drugs that can be given by mouth should be. Most of the business of giving drugs hypodermically or by vein is a business that is more profitable to the doctor than to anyone else.

The wonder is that this drug can be swallowed, enters the blood streams quickly, and kills germs without affecting the human cells at all.

Mondays' astrological forecast is far a rather conflicting state of affairs in which certain lures to intellectual, cultural, social or sentimental preoccupations must give way to very determined efforts in the way of diligence, hard work and commonplace activities. Business, especially matters of writings, publicity or kindred things, demands such sacrifice.

Once we had an assistant secretary of state named A. A. Ade.

One day he had occasion to call upon another government functionary on the telephone.

"This," he said "is Ade speaking."

"Who?" said the other. "I don't catch the name. How do you spell it?"

"A," said Ade.

"Yeah?"

which has been chipped open at the end is shown, and below that a castor bean which has had its hard outer shell peeled off before planting. When chipping a seed take great care to cut only the outer covering, since injury to the inner seed will cause it to dry out and die. One safe method of "chipping" a seed is to file off a tiny bit of the outer shell, or at least file it until it is thin enough to permit the easy absorption of moisture. Do not chip or file near the end of a seed having a scar.

Calla lily, morning glory, canna, sweet pea, lupins, moonflower and castor beans can be safely chipped to hasten germination. In the case of the castor bean it is perfectly safe to peel off the entire outer shell.

Twenty-eight relatives and guests were seated at one long table in the dining room for the basket dinner. In the center of the table was a large cake marking his 28 years of service. This was a gift from his brother, C. C. Strawser, and Mrs. Strawser.

Mr. Strawser received many gifts of flowers as well as more substantial remembrances, one of which was a leather billfold from Palmer Wise, chief of the department.

Included in the guests were Miss Norma Jean Bovey of Westerville, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Baumann and daughter, Virginia, of Marion; Mrs. W. A. DiMAG REMAINS HOME AS YANKS NINE GOES WEST

NEW YORK, May 1—Joe DiMaggio, brilliant New York Yankee outfielder, today realized that the jinx has caught up with him again.

The jinx, which kept him from starting his first three seasons with the Yankees, but which couldn't keep him from starting this season, reasserted itself Saturday when he tore the muscle in his right leg off the tibia and fibula bones.

Now Joe must stay behind and rest for two weeks, if not more, while the Yankees make their swing through the West, commencing tomorrow at Detroit.

X-ray burns on the same right leg, a tonsil operation and hold-outitis were the reasons for his missing opening day action in his first three years with the world's champions.

GIBBONS, DIXON TO FIGHT IN COLUMBUS ON MAY 8

COLUMBUS, May 1—Floyd Gibbons, sensational young Columbus heavyweight, will meet Paul Dixon of New York in a 10-round bout at Columbus Auditorium here on Monday, May 8. It will be Gibbons' first start since early April, an injured hand having forced the youngster to cancel recent bookings.

Treated at Ford Hospital in Detroit, Gibbons is completely recovered and is now punching harder than ever before. His handlers report that he will be in peak form for the Dixon scrap.

Dixon is new to midwesternistic fans, but is well-known in the east. One of heavyweight champ Joe Louis' top sparring partners, he has boxed more than 10 rounds against the Brown Bomber.

REDLEGS HOPING TO KEEP EDGE IN PIRATE FRAY

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 1—Still pacing the National League race, the Cincinnati Reds hoped to resume their fight to retain the post position in a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates here today following a day of idleness because of rain.

And while the Ohio boys fretted under dripping skies yesterday, the Boston Bees moved up on the leader by nosing out the New York Giants 3 to 2 in a thrilling game at Boston. The victory left Boston with a total of seven wins and three losses against six and two for Cincinnati.

On his heels in the odds list for the mile and a quarter grind will be Technician and Challedon, and behind them—perhaps behind others—will be the ill-fated El Chico, the early future book favorite who has been twice humbled in as many starts as a three-year-old.

Next down the line are expected to be Xalapa Clown, Porter's Mite, T. M. Dorsett and Lightspur, with the rest of the pack up to a possible 20 starters taking positions in the betting based on their starts, victories and training as two and three year olds.

Technician Top

Despite Johnstown's three spectacular victories this year—the last a decisive win over five Kentucky derby bidders in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday—many track followers and observers stuck to Technician as their favorite for the derby. Technician, winner of the Flamingo stakes at Hialeah and stablemate of Lawrin, 1938 derby winner, brought a roar from his fans Saturday by winning the Daniel Boone six-furlong race at the Downs.

The big colt, owned by H. M. Woolf of Kansas City, came out of the race ready for another test tomorrow in the derby trial against several derby hopefuls. The trial may give observers another opportunity to try to forecast what will happen in the big race Saturday.

Johnstown, whose three victories this year gave him a record of 10 wins in 12 starts in two years of running, was expected at the Downs today. Another scheduled arrival was El Chico, whose owner, William Ziegler, wired that he will be a certain derby starter despite his recent reverses.

Leaders Retain A. B. C. Positions

CLEVELAND, May 1—With but four more nights of five-man bowling to go, leaders in the American Bowling Congress championships today were breathing more easily.

All of the big stars have rolled, and the chances of upsetting the standings lay with the unknowns, such as Mike Blazek, of Conneaut, O., who shoots tonight with an Erie, Pa., team. Mike rolled a perfect game in the closing sessions last year.

The largest daylight crowd of the meet was disappointed because Governor Julius P. Hell of Wisconsin could not roll as scheduled but were rewarded when Milwaukee's all-time great Hank Marino turned in 221-259-223 for 713 and fifth place among the leaders in the singles. His huge series carried him to seventh spot in the all-events on 1961 as he gave the Hells 650 in the five-man firing and picked up 598 in the appearance.

The national match game champion Ned Day was unable to get his usually dynamic pellet working consistently but reached 1,800 in the all-events with 608-632-560.

New York's flashy Joe Falcaro had his heart broken with three treacherous 8-10 splits to hold him to 646 in the singles as he threatened the solo lead with 217 and an eight-in-row string that stopped on 252, with a 177 final count.

In the five-man firing last night Schmidt's Home Appliances, Norwood, O., were high with 2905, the 82nd series of the meet in the 2900 range. Still-in-the-money: five-man, 2703; two-man, 1126; singles, 575; all-events, 1811.

WORKING HOURS RAISED
PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Change of administration in Rhode Island brought a change in working hours of state office employees. Gov. William H. Vanderbilt ordered the work week increased 35½ hours to 39 hours.

All of the big stars have rolled, and the chances of upsetting the standings lay with the unknowns, such as Mike Blazek, of Conneaut, O., who shoots tonight with an Erie, Pa., team. Mike rolled a perfect game in the closing sessions last year.

The largest daylight crowd of the meet was disappointed because Governor Julius P. Hell of Wisconsin could not roll as scheduled but were rewarded when Milwaukee's all-time great Hank Marino turned in 221-259-223 for 713 and fifth place among the leaders in the singles. His huge series carried him to seventh spot in the all-events on 1961 as he gave the Hells 650 in the five-man firing and picked up 598 in the appearance.

The national match game champion Ned Day was unable to get his usually dynamic pellet working consistently but reached 1,800 in the all-events with 608-632-560.

New York's flashy Joe Falcaro had his heart broken with three treacherous 8-10 splits to hold him to 646 in the singles as he threatened the solo lead with 217 and an eight-in-row string that stopped on 252, with a 177 final count.

In the five-man firing last night Schmidt's Home Appliances, Norwood, O., were high with 2905, the 82nd series of the meet in the 2900 range. Still-in-the-money: five-man, 2703; two-man, 1126; singles, 575; all-events, 1811.

List Of Applicants Sent To Chief Of Division, Renick Discloses

Pickaway county's division of aid for the aged, serving over 700 clients and having about 100 applications on file for aid, Monday was in charge of a single employee.

That employee is Edward C. Ebert, Watt street, appointed April 17 as an investigator and instructed to serve as acting subdivision manager.

In recent weeks the department had been in charge of two employees. Mr. Ebert and Miss Clarissa Talbut, E. Union street, a case investigator.

Miss Talbut was dismissed from the department Saturday. The position she held paid $2,320 a year. Thirty provisional employees in 26 county offices of the division of aid for the aged were discharged.

The dismissal of Miss Talbut is the fourth dismissal in the department. T. D. Krinn, E. Union street, who had held the position of subdivision manager, was suspended for 15 days then a removal order was filed against him with the civil service commission by Thomas W. McCaw, chief of the Ohio Division of Aid for the Aged.

The ouster order alleged Mr. Krinn took part in political activities while head of the department. The removal order became effective April 30. Mr. Krinn did not fight the order.

Two other employees, Claude Ater, Perry township, and Mrs. Frank Littleton, Circleville, had previously been dismissed in an economy program.

T. A. Renick, chairman of the Republican Executive committee, said a number of applications had been submitted for appointments to positions in the division of aid for the aged. He said he had received no information concerning any new appointments in the county department.

FROST FAILS TO DAMAGE TREES, COUNTY CROPS

No serious damage was reported in Pickaway county to fruit or garden crops Monday from the frost.

John May, of near East Ringgold, extensive fruit grower, said no damage was caused to fruit on his farm by the low temperature. He said the lowest temperature at his home was 34 degrees. "I doubt if there was any damage," Mr. May said. He said the low temperature was taken shortly before 6 o'clock.

No serious damage was reported at the greenhouses of Fred Moeller, just east of Circleville. Few plants that would be damaged by frost have been put in the ground.

The lowest temperature in Circleville, Monday, was 39 degrees. Highest Sunday was 69.

A tract of giant sugar pines has recently been purchased by the department of the interior for addition to Yosemite National park in California. The trees are rare, and the number dwindling fast.

Preview Of What To Wear On The Beaches This Summer

WITH the help of four young Hollywood film players, we give you a preview of what to wear on the beaches this summer. Ellen Drew is dressed in a knitted suit with a brassiere top. A belt of the same material ties at the waist. Shirley Ross wears a plaid in wine blue and fuchsia. The suit is cut with a cross strap arrangement in back which can be adjusted for sun-bathing. Candy stripes feature the cotton play dress worn by Dolores Casey. The frock is of pink, green, yellow and white cotton. Susan Hayward models a white satin latex suit covered with exotic birds of paradise print in deep orange, green and black.

STATE SOLONS RETURNING TO CONSIDER RELIEF JOB

COLUMBUS, May 1—A weary contingent of legislators anxious to fold up the 93rd general assembly session and go home were scheduled to return to the capitol tonight to wrestle with the perplexing problem of financing the state for the next 18 months and providing sufficient poor relief money.

Whether the $318,000,000 general appropriation bill will be acted upon this week remained anyone's guess as the house and senate waited for recommendations of a joint legislative committee on relief.

The finance committee of the house included a $19,000,000 item in the budget bill for relief, but the relief group apparently will not be satisfied with that amount and the word has gone out that at least another $1,000,000 for the biennium will be requested.

Other members slated to go are Frank Sotak, Republican of Cleveland, and Bishop Reverdy D. Ransom, Wilberforce Negro. Bishop Ransom and Mrs. Smith, secretary to former Governor Davey, are Democrats.

Most prominently mentioned for Ransom's post is Dwight Matchette, Greenville, former clerk of the senate and house. Mrs. Laura Dow Gebby, Beloit, may receive consideration for Mrs. Smith's job. Parole commission posts will pay $6,000 a year, the same salary paid present board members.

Another concern of the legislature is providing local revenues for relief through the combining of bills authorizing use of motor vehicle license revenues for the regulation and enforcement of motor vehicle traffic and permitting taxing authorities to transfer any funds for relief payments.

Using license revenues for enforcement would relieve the drain on the general revenue funds of subdivisions and permit an equal diversion of money for dollar-for-dollar relief matching.

and two brothers, Eugene and George, both of Steubenville. He will be buried in Steubenville.

Jewell To Keep Job
Bricker has indicated that the only parole board member he is considering retaining is Judge H. W. Jewell, Republican of Delaware.

The governor remarked shortly after the senate approved the pa-ral board bill that "it will be quite safe to speculate that Mrs. Myrna Smith is not under consideration for appointment to the new commission."

Other members slated to go are Frank Sotak, Republican of Cleveland, and Bishop Reverdy D. Ransom, Wilberforce Negro. Bishop Ransom and Mrs. Smith, secretary to former Governor Davey, are Democrats.

The auto driven by Mrs. Van Riper and a taxicab driven by James McCain, Clinton street, was involved in the collision. Mrs. Van Riper was driving south on Pickaway street. McCain was driving east on Franklin street.

Mccain and Frank Wilson, Island road, riding in the taxicab escaped with bruises.

The auto of Ambrose Maul, Muhlenberg township, was slightly damaged Saturday when it went into a ditch on the road between Darbyville and Five Points. Mr. Maul said the car went into the ditch when he applied the brakes.

RAIL ACCIDENT CAUSE MYSTERY

Five Men Dead And Three Others Injured In Pittsburgh Crash

PITTSBURGH, May 1—Cause of a double-header freight train wreck which cost the lives of five men and seriously injured three others "will probably never be known," railroad officials report today.

Bound for Columbus, O., the train plowed through a derailed switch on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad in Mifflin township. Those dead were:

Edward F. Feeney, 52, of Columbus, O., engineer; David R. Conroy, 43, of Steubenville, O., fireman; D. H. Liggenfelter, 45, of Dennison, O., fireman; C. E. Rine, of Dennison, fireman, and T. E. Ramsaur, 54, also of Dennison, O., a conductor.

Injured were Flagman E. E. Mace, of Dennison, O., and two men termed "trespassers" by railroad officials, Charles Yeager, 18, of Danville, Pa., and Smith Sones, 28, of Milton, Pa.

Hospital attaches reported Yeager "in a serious condition—dangerously ill" with both legs amputated. Mace and Sones were not so seriously injured.

So badly smashed and twisted was the wreckage that it was 15 hours after the wreck that the bodies of Liggenfelter and Ramsaur were removed from one of the engines.

Brakeman O. E. Winrod of Dennison, O., miraculously escaped injury. Although seated in the box-like shelter on the tender of the second locomotive, which was shattered in the wreck, Winrod, unscathed, jumped from his perch and ran for aid.

Rolling toward the main track at a speed estimated at 25 miles per hour, the lead engine left the track and plunged into a narrow ditch. The tender up ended and the front end telescoped into the locomotive's bulkhead.

Feeney, who moved to Columbus from Urichsville about a year ago, is survived by his widow, three sons and five daughters. He had been in the Pennsylvania railroad's employ 37 years. Funeral services will be conducted in Columbus tomorrow.

The lowest temperature in Circleville, Monday, was 39 degrees.

Highest Sunday was 69.

Conroy is survived by his widow.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone, Ashville 79

On next Sunday, May 7, Mrs. Sophia Briggs will have reached her 92nd birthday. Just what plans have been made for the celebration of this event have not been fully announced. But her Sunday school class never lets this occasion slip by unobserved and this year will be no exception to the custom. She has been resident of Ashville for many years.

When coming to Ashville from their home on Route 23 Saturday afternoon by auto Robert Cummins and his mother, Mrs. Herb Cummins collided with another machine on the Ashville-Duvall road. The occupants of the other auto were a Mrs. Bradley and another lady residing in Grove City territory. None was seriously injured. The cars, however, did not fare so well and had to be towed away.

Pickaway county schools Field Day will be held at New Holland on Saturday, May 13. That school and Ashville tied for first place at last year's track meet and New Holland won by a coin toss. Some time ago we spent several days for each of a couple of years at and in New Holland territory and met a lot of what we appraised as a fine, courteous people. And in our minds eye we yet can see that long string of hog houses down at Harley Mace's place and well remember that friendly farmer who gave us that good cigar that sent us autoing over wire fences and into an apple orchard and without hitting any tree. And a nearby gate led us out upon the highway again without a scratch.

Richard Peters, wife and little Miss Marian were over the weekend visitors in Ashville at the home of his parents, Lawrence and Mrs. Peters. Dick is yet on his waterworks engineering job down at West Union, Adams county. Says in laying their water mains it is necessary to blast through solid rock. And too, there is enough work contracted for to last quite awhile yet.

Believing that the auto license plate sale was over with, Clyde Brinker the local registrar, sent in his supplies, but on Saturday if he had had them he could have disposed of eight sets... Ashville is averaging now about a half-dozen free, street picture show salesmen each week, a couple of youngsters were making a canvas of the business men Saturday... Miss Amanda Wallen, who has been employed at the local News office for the last near three years, has accepted a place in the job printing plant at Groveport, beginning work there Monday... Fred Curry has begun to build a foundation wall around that big hole in the ground where Harry Sark's new dwelling is to be. And if the appearance of the drawn plans count for anything,
